

TEACH US TO CARE AND NOT TO CARE
TEACH US TO SIT STILL

LOGOS 67

the word

in the beginning was the word and the word was misspelled . . .

these words
are not to be read

Side → Matthew 7:1-2 or $

ACCREDITATION DOESN'T

TASTE ANY B

no more shaggy-prophets' staffs quivering against these walls broken now buried they sprout like dead men at our feet for some clusters of jerusalem thorn for some a black and bitter bush with roots deep in too many autumns too many words and now the final cannibal feast we feed upon ourselves the first to go are those lend-lease minds from the leper isles as the prophets predicted: baptism becoming a requiem at first there was a time to sit and wait: a time to search the books behind the desk for funny words to chalk upon the door and motion was the mobile hung with paper suns which made us dizzy when we tied it from the ceiling for the door was always open to the movements of the summer wind and sometimes like salmon splashing about in a fish bowl thrashing their tails in the madcap illusion that they are working upstream we dream

coming down finding sand between our toes again we poke at mangled morrison's with salted humiliation like golden-ager ahabs mounting dolphins at maximo marina growth is ruthless its stone-splitting tendrils honest and without pardon impolite and painfully without excuse it twines like fingers around fingers leaning together for a while then pulling apart breaking for the sun

we burn in bunches

hurried like the heroes of deodorant commercials with fists-full of words to pop at side-walk gawkers we stumble past the senses' sated refusal to budge wings sky-locked in motion must meet in mid-air or not at all since we have balanced here this long teach me to learn learn me to love shifting shades of pastel bundles of yellow hair gestapoed like gorillas behind bars of cheap aluminum those pop-top nannies protect them from themselves with quick-draw holsters full of pink violation slips tomorrow is the lily you hold in your hand

only grownlover

where do dead gods go on sunday morning?

the lecture at eight a statement first rehearsed and later put on paper: the frog's monologue to the empty sky sandpaper against ice the fast-driven intellect hoping to make enough snow for sleigh and mittens in time for the summer solstice and seasonal recognition no pictures of lovers clamped to walls of the artist's eye on color of the poet caressing a noun the musician's hand on unsure strings of the actor pushing past the self into the vibrant stance of other no pictures of the image being forced out of darkness no pictures of these lovers together with the sacred silence of creation night is kind to this pine tree hungry sandscape quiet as brick and water restless as a seagull tucked inside a shoe box to heal its broken wing too involved in the web to find the face of the spider pitched far past that place where words can supervise sitting still on the other side of the wind unraveled fists reach and touch now pools of tender pavement

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of a rocky landscape. In the foreground, dark, jagged rock formations are visible. In the background, a light-colored building with a gabled roof and several windows is partially obscured by the rocks. The image has a grainy, high-contrast aesthetic.

even among these rocks . . .

WANTED: Crew to explore a new world!

Vast unknown territory, rich potential. Some space travel. Ingenuity, adaptability essential. Challenging opportunity for skilled workers, rapid advancement. Adventurous high school and college graduates are eligible.

The new world? A small solar planet named Earth. Not visible to the unimaginative, but many can see it now. And—it's exciting!

The new world will be colonized by 90% of all the scientists known to history . . . and by technicians, specialists, teachers, writers, and many we can't name—because half the jobs there, ten years from now, do not even exist today!

How can you qualify for the expedition? Acquire skills needed for today's jobs—in college, technical, or special school. Then keep up with the knowledge explosion by continuing education—in graduate seminars, adult education and TV courses, on-the-job or armed services training.

When you're set to take off, you'll go a long, long way. Bon voyage!
